APSTBS – BSHES, Apparel Studies – Attachments 1C and 1C-1

Students may choose any 8 hours of sciences selected from the State Minimum Science Core. This change will allow students who have completed courses in accordance with the State Minimum Science core to apply those courses to the Apparel Studies program.

HDFSBS – BSHES, Human Development and Family Studies – Attachments 1D, 1D-1, 1D-2 and 1D-3

Proposal requests four changes:

1. Two new courses are added as required courses to all three concentration areas in HDFS. The two courses are HESC 2453 Analytical Approaches to Research in HDFS I and HESC 2463 Analytical Approaches to Research in HDFS II. These courses eliminate the research methods and statistics requirements in the Lifespan concentration. In the Child Development and Birth to Kindergarten concentration, the additional requirements will reduce the general elective requirements.
2. Two courses (with an additional two lab sections) are now required in the Child Development concentration. These are HESC 4332/4332L and HESC 4342/4342L. This reduces general electives by 8 hours.
3. The requirement for an additional three hours in English, journalism, or foreign language is removed and electives are increased by three hours in all concentrations.
4. Remove HESC 3763L from the list of Lifespan and Child Development electives.

HESC 3623 is no longer cross-listed and is taught only as RESM 3873. Catalog and program need to be changed to reflect this course change.

Department of Poultry Sciences

POSCBS – BSA, Poultry Science – Attachments 1G and 1G-1

The Poultry Science faculty has recommended the addition of several POSC courses which resulted in a reallocation of course groupings. The addition of specific course content would better prepare our students for more advanced poultry courses. This impacted our core requirements. In addition, we felt it was important to make adjustments in our poultry curriculum. No changes made will impact other degree programs. These changes will not lead to elimination of any other program. It is simply a restructuring of the degree requirements. We have changed our degree check sheet (Attachment 1G-1) to reflect the recommended course additions.
