SECTION VI: Justification

Justify this change and state its likely effect on any other degree program (including those outside the school or college). Identify any program or program components (other than courses) to be eliminated if this program is implemented. (Program and course change forms must also be submitted for such related changes.)

1. Program/major name change: The study of International Relations has existed on the University of Arkansas campus since the founding of the Fulbright Institute of International Relations in 1982. An academic major in International Relations has existed at the University of Arkansas since 1998. Throughout this time, International Relations has functioned as an interdisciplinary major, exploring international relations in the broadest sense of the word from a political, historical, economic, cultural, and societal perspective, in fulfillment of Senator Fulbright's vision of "teaching things in perspective." Traditionally, the term International Relations (in its interdisciplinary guise) has been interchangeable with the term International Studies. Over the past decade, however, the term International Relations has increasingly become used to signify the specific subfield of International Relations in the field of Political Science, with International Studies becoming the preferred term for the more interdisciplinary approach. For example, at the University of Mississippi the Croft Institute for International Studies was founded in 1997, with a similar curriculum for its International Studies major as Arkansas's International Relations major; the University of Oklahoma has recently launched a College of International Studies. Beyond the SEC, the University of Washington and the University of Denver each house a School of International Studies, and Stanford University runs the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies.

Many of our graduates seek entry into graduate programs within these schools (several IR majors over the past few years have matriculated into the University of Denver's International Studies program). Changing the program and major name from International Relations to International Studies (with a code change from IREL to INST) brings the University of Arkansas into line with its peer and aspirant institutions, and is a better reflection of the nature of our major. It is also a move encouraged by the external reviewers who visited campus in October and November 2011 to assess all International and Area Studies programs at the University of Arkansas, including the International Relations Program, and who strongly recommended that the International Relations major be renamed the International Studies major to avoid possible confusion with the Political Science subfield of International Relations.

SECTION VII: Catalog Text and Format

In the box below, insert the current catalog text which is to be changed, with changes highlighted with the color yellow. Include all proposed changes identified in Section V. Only changes explicitly stated in Section V will be considered for approval by the University Course and Programs Committee, the Graduate Council and the Faculty Senate. If you are proposing a new program, give proposed text with all of the elements listed below. If you are proposing modified text, include these elements as appropriate.

Include the following elements, in order, in the catalog text for proposed undergraduate program(s) or program changes:

- State complete major/program name
- Briefly define or describe the major/program or discipline.
- · Identify typical career goals or paths for graduates. (Optional)
- State admission requirements (if any) for entry or entry into upper/advanced level of major/program.
- Identify location in catalog of university, college/school, and department/program requirements which the student must meet in addition to hours in the major, but do not restate these requirements.
- State course requirements in the major and any allied areas, giving number of hours and specific courses; specify electives or elective areas and give numbers of hours and courses in elective pools or categories; identify any other course requirements.
- State any other requirements (required GPA, internship, exit exam, project, thesis, etc.).
- Identify name and requirements for each concentration (if any).
- Specify whether a minor or other program component is allowed or required and provide details.
- · State eight-semester plan requirements

For minors, state requirements in terms of hours, required courses, electives, etc.

For graduate program/units, include elements (as needed) parallel to those listed for undergraduate programs above.

For Law School program/units, prepare text consistent with current catalog style.

For centers, prepare text consistent with current catalog style.

Requirements for a Major in International vStudies: In addition to the University/state core requirements (see page 41) and the Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences Graduation Requirements (see page 134 under College Academic Regulations and Degree Completion Policy), the following course requirements must be met.

Bolded courses from the list below may be applied to portions of the University/state minimum core requirements.

A minimum of 45 credit hours to include:

3 - HIST 1123 World Civilization, 1500 - Present

3 - IREL/PLSC 2813 Intro to International Relations

3 – GEOG 2003 World Geography

3-6 - ECON 2143 Basic Economics or ECON 2013 Macroeconomics and ECON 2023 Microeconomics

3 - IREL_4003 International Studies Seminar

6 – Six credit hours of 3000-level or higher world language courses in the same language. (This requirement cannot be satisfied with 3 credits in one language and 3 credits in a second language.) Students may need to fulfill prerequisites in a world language at the 1003, 1013, 2003 or 2013 level, depending on placement level in that language.

Area Studies Requirement:

Select one (1) area studies focus, and complete the two required courses for that area (6 credit hours).
