

CIM Report Apr 15, 2016 10:19am

Course Changes Pending Approval from University Course and Program Committee

Code	Field	Old Value	New Value
AFLS 1023H	code	AFLS 1011H	AFLS 1023H
	Course Catalog Number	1011H	1023H
	Course Short Title	INTRO BUMPERS COLLEGE HONORS	BUMPERS HONORS PERSPECTIVES
	Course Minimum Credit Hours	1	3
	Course Long Title	Introduction to the Bumpers College Honors Program	Bumpers College Honors Program Perspectives
	Course Catalog Description	An introduction to the requirements, expectations, and opportunities of the Bumpers College Honors Program. The course is available to all students, but is required for NEW students in the Bumpers College Honors Program. Topics covered will include: purpose and organization of the honors program, project requirements, research and creative activity opportunities, study abroad, and written and oral communication exercises. Recitation 2 hours per week for the first 8 weeks of the semester.	This course is intended to meet the requirements of UNIV 1001 and provide Bumpers College Honors students with an overview of the Honors Program as well as provide insight into research and creative project development and expectations.
	Course Audit Allowed	Yes	No
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2016
	Course Title/Description Change Type		Major Content Change
	Course Syllabus		AFLS_1023H_Syllabus_Fall16.docx
	Course Pre-or Corequisite(s) Justification		Honors standing. This course is designed to enhance student success. As a "flipped" class, it will have an online component in addition to in-class interaction. The course will emphasize the transition to the university and university-level work by addressing topics such as critical thinking and civic engagement. Other units intended to enhance overall student success include-but are not limited to: note taking, time management, and academic integrity. This course will serve as an introduction to the requirements, expectations, and opportunities of the Bumpers College Honors Program. The course is available to all students, but is required for NEW students in the Bumpers College Honors Program. Topics covered will include: purpose and organization of the honors program, project requirements, research and creative activity opportunities, study abroad, and written and oral communication exercises. The course will also provide an overview of research and proposal writing required for completing Honors projects.
	Course Additional Notes		Course has been developed with input and approval from Dr. DiBrezza to confirm the credits meet UNIV 1001 requirement for students in the Bumpers College Honors Program
AMPD 3071	Course Last Update Effective	Spring 2015	Spring 2017
	Course Catalog Number	4071	3071
	Course Prerequisite(s) Justification	Junior standing or instructor consent. Changing to the proper title after the name change for the area.	AMPD majors only. The change in course level will allow second semester sophomores and higher the opportunity to complete the course in a timely fashion.

	Course Additional Notes	Effective Spring 2015.	To be effective SPRING 2017.
	code	AMPD 4071	AMPD 3071
	Reviewer Comments		lkulcza Fri, 06 Nov 2015 16:34:43 GMT Rollback: Per request from Terry Martin tmartin Fri, 06 Nov 2015 16:37:19 GMT Rollback: Sophomore students should not be taking a senior level class. Please consider a different level class. ljobert Fri, 06 Nov 2015 16:43:09 GMT Rollback: per Terry Martin's statement kjvestal Mon, 15 Feb 2016 16:13:50 GMT Rollback: Please see Dr. Martin's comment. Thank you!
ARAB 2016	Course Catalog Description	Equivalent to 2013. Leads to greater oral comprehension and speaking ability and develops the more advanced reading and writing skills. Emphasizes morphology and syntax.	Equivalent to 2003-2013 sequence. Leads to greater oral comprehension and speaking ability and develops the more advanced reading and writing skills. Emphasizes morphology and syntax.
	Course Create Honors Course?	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Spring 2017
	Course Title/Description Change Type		Minor (stylistic/editorial) Change
	Course Syllabus		Arabic 2016H syllabus.docx
	Justification		In addition to the regular ARAB 2016 course requirements, students registering for ARAB 2016H are required to complete an oral presentation/ research project on a topic of student interest related to Arabic language and culture. Students will meet periodically with their teacher over the course of the semester to discuss the project, their progress on the project, and to submit relevant materials such as outlines, bibliographies, drafts and other evidence of progress. The project is due in class the last Friday of the semester. It can be presented live or as a video recording. In addition to the oral presentation project, students registering for ARAB 2016H will be required to deliver an original speech in the WLLC Department's annual Speech Contest (when held).
ARHS 451V			Added
ARTS 4413H			Deleted
ARTS 4483H			Deleted
CLST 3003			Added
CSES 1201L			Added
EMGT 5033			Added
ENGL 3603			Added
ENGL 4903			Added
GRSD 5041			Added
HIST 6023	code	HIST 5023	HIST 6023
	Course Catalog Number	5023	6023
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017

	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level
	Reviewer Comments		agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:26:21 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process.
HIST 6043	code	HIST 5043	HIST 6043
	Course Catalog Number	5043	6043
	Course Primary Component	Lecture	Seminar
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level.  The component type was also changed from "lecture" to "seminar" to reflect that this course is actually a seminar course.
	Reviewer Comments		agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:27:36 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process.
HIST 6053	code	HIST 5053	HIST 6053
	Course Catalog Number	5053	6053
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level  Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Tue, 02 Feb 2016 20:04:47 GMT Modified repeatability and multiple enrollment in term information per request of the HIST department agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:28:31 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process.
HIST 6103	Course Last Update Effective	Spring 2016	Fall 2017

	Course Catalog Number	5103	6103
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	3	30
	Course Repeat Limit	1	10
	Course Catalog Description	Historiographical and bibliographical study of special areas of U.S. history, such as the Age of Jackson, the Civil War, etc.	Historiographical and bibliographical study of special areas of U.S. history, such as the Antebellum America, the Civil War, etc.
	Course Topic Names	AMER BETWEEN WARS: 1918-1941	Any topic on schedule
	Justification	Topic per Donna Draper.	On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level.  Also two additional changes were made: (1) This course can be repeated for degree credit up to ten times based on any topic offered. (2) The description was slightly modified, replacing the example "Age of Jackson" to "Antebellum America" as historians no longer refer to that time period as such.
	code	HIST 5103	HIST 6103
	Course Title/Description Change Type		Major Content Change
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper[Tue, 02 Feb 2016 18:10:12 GMT]Slight typographical error modification made to justification section. agriffin[Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:29:50 GMT]Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process.
HIST 6123	code	HIST 5123	HIST 6123
	Course Catalog Number	5123	6123
	Course Repeat Limit	1	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	3	30
	Course Catalog Description	Research projects in selected fields of American history, such as the Civil War, the Age of Jackson, etc.	Research projects in selected fields of American history, such as the Civil War, Antebellum America, etc.
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Title/Description Change Type		Minor (stylistic/editorial) Change
	Course Topic Names		Any topic on schedule
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level.  Also two additional changes were made: (1) This course can be repeated for degree credit up to ten times based on any topic offered. (2) The description was slightly modified, replacing the example "Age of Jackson" to "Antebellum America" as historians no longer refer to that time period as such.

	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Tue, 02 Feb 2016 18:11:29 GMT Slight typographical correction in justification section. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:30:51 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process.
HIST 6133	code	HIST 5133	HIST 6133
	Course Catalog Number	5133	6133
	Course Repeat Limit	1	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	3	30
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Tue, 02 Feb 2016 20:08:59 GMT Per request of the HIST department, modified the repeatability and restored multiple enrollment in term to make this course similar to all the other HIST reading and research seminars. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:32:10 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process.
HIST 6143	code	HIST 5143	HIST 6143
	Course Catalog Number	5143	6143
	Course Repeat Limit	1	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	3	30
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist

	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper[Tue, 02 Feb 2016 20:11:00 GMT]Restored multiple enrollment in term and added explanation regarding repeatability in justification section. agriffin[Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:33:14 GMT]Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process.
HIST 6153	code	HIST 5153	HIST 6153
	Course Catalog Number	5153	6153
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Allow Multiple Enrollment	No	Yes
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper[Tue, 02 Feb 2016 20:15:02 GMT]Modified repeatability and restored "multiple enrollment in term allowed" per request of the HIST department to make all graduate-level research and reading seminars alike in terms of repeatability. agriffin[Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:33:59 GMT]Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process.
HIST 6163	code	HIST 5163	HIST 6163

	Course Catalog Number	5163	6163
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		The End of British Empire, Britain the Creation of European Union, Gender Sexuality in Modern Britain
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Wed, 03 Feb 2016 18:55:42 GMT Modified repeatability and restored "multiple enrollment in term allowed" per request of the HIST department to make all graduate-level research and reading seminars alike in terms of repeatability. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:35:00 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6213	code	HIST 5213	HIST 6213
	Course Catalog Number	5213	6213
	Course Repeat Limit	1	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	3	30
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)

	Reviewer Comments		ddraper[Tue, 02 Feb 2016 20:21:26 GMT]Restored "allows multiple enrollment in term" that was mistakenly changed to "no" during course proposal creation per request of the HIST department.
HIST 6233	code	HIST 5233	HIST 6233
	Course Catalog Number	5233	6233
	Course Repeat Limit	1	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	3	30
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		Topics already exist.
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level.  Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Course Additional Notes		Restored "allows multiple enrollment in term" that was mistakenly negated during course proposal process per request of the HIST department.
	Reviewer Comments		agriffin[Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:36:45 GMT]Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6313	code	HIST 5313	HIST 6313
	Course Catalog Number	5313	6313
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist

	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper[Tue, 02 Feb 2016 20:26:09 GMT]Changed repeatability and restored multiple enrollment in term to make course parallel to all other graduate research and reading seminars. Done by request of the HIST department. agriffin[Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:37:18 GMT]Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6323	code	HIST 5323	HIST 6323
	Course Catalog Number	5323	6323
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		"Gender and Sexuality in Modern Latin America,"  "The State and Imperial Frameworks in Colonial Latin America," "Genocide and Political Violence in Modern Latin America"
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)

	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Wed, 03 Feb 2016 18:58:16 GMT Modified repeatability and restored "multiple enrollment in term allowed" per request of the HIST department to make all graduate-level research and reading seminars alike in terms of repeatability. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:37:45 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6353	code	HIST 5353	HIST 6353
	Course Catalog Number	5353	6353
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Allow Multiple Enrollment	No	Yes
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level.  Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Tue, 02 Feb 2016 20:32:41 GMT Changed repeatability and restored multiple enrollment in term to make course parallel to all other graduate research and reading seminars. Done by request of the HIST department. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:38:24 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6363	code	HIST 5363	HIST 6363
	Course Catalog Number	5363	6363
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Allow Multiple Enrollment	No	Yes
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		"Money and Taxation in Medieval Europe," "The Crossroads of Culture---Turkey in the Medieval Past," "Power and Political Engagement in the Medieval World"

	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Wed, 03 Feb 2016 18:59:34 GMT Modified repeatability and restored "multiple enrollment in term allowed" per request of the HIST department to make all graduate-level research and reading seminars alike in terms of repeatability. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:38:50 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6373	Course Last Update Effective	Spring 2016	Fall 2017
	Course Catalog Number	5373	6373
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Allow Multiple Enrollment	No	Yes
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Justification	Topic Alexander the Great added per Donna Draper.	On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	code	HIST 5373	HIST 6373
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist
	Course Additional Notes		Changed repeatability and restored multiple enrollment in term to make course parallel to all other graduate research and reading seminars. Done by request of the HIST department.
	Reviewer Comments		agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:39:16 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.

HIST 6383	code	HIST 5383	HIST 6383
	Course Catalog Number	5383	6383
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Allow Multiple Enrollment	No	Yes
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		"Alexander the Great and his World," "Greco-Roman Heritage in the Western Imagination," "Sparta and the Creation of the Modern Nation State"
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Wed, 03 Feb 2016 19:00:47 GMT Modified repeatability and restored "multiple enrollment in term allowed" per request of the HIST department to make all graduate-level research and reading seminars alike in terms of repeatability. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:39:46 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6413	code	HIST 5413	HIST 6413
	Course Catalog Number	5413	6413
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		topics already exist

	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper[Tue, 02 Feb 2016 20:37:04 GMT]Changed repeatability and restored multiple enrollment in term to make course parallel to all other graduate research and reading seminars. Done by request of the HIST department. agriffin[Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:40:15 GMT]Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6423	code	HIST 5423	HIST 6423
	Course Catalog Number	5423	6423
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		"Imperialism and Empire in Colonial Africa," "South African Apartheid," "The Atlantic Slave Trade"
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)

	Reviewer Comments		kjvestal Fri, 08 Jan 2016 20:59:51 GMT Rollback: Rolling back per submitter's request. ddraper Wed, 03 Feb 2016 19:02:21 GMT Modified repeatability and restored "multiple enrollment in term allowed" per request of the HIST department to make all graduate-level research and reading seminars alike in terms of repeatability. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:40:42 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6433	code	HIST 5433	HIST 6433
	Course Catalog Number	5433	6433
	Course Repeat Limit	2	10
	Course Repeat Limit - Units	6	30
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Topic Names		"Reggae, Pop Culture, and the Independent Caribbean," "Pirates and the Making of the Modern Caribbean"
	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Wed, 03 Feb 2016 19:03:44 GMT Modified repeatability and restored "multiple enrollment in term allowed" per request of the HIST department to make all graduate-level research and reading seminars alike in terms of repeatability. ddraper Wed, 03 Feb 2016 19:06:18 GMT Modified topic list. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:41:06 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 6443	code	HIST 5443	HIST 6443
	Course Catalog Number	5443	6443
	Course Is Repeatable	No	Yes
	Course Allow Multiple Enrollment	No	Yes
	Course Audit Allowed	No	Yes
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2017
	Course Repeat Limit - Units		30
	Course Repeat Limit		10
	Course Topic Names		"Plantation Agriculture and Life in the Caribbean"

	Justification		On the advice of the Graduate Council, the history department faculty in December voted to stop using dual credit 4000-level courses and transition to 4000/5000 level split courses. To maintain separation between our lecture courses and our seminar courses, our current 5000 level courses (seminars), such as this one, will be moved to the 6000-level. Change to repeatability: HIST graduate-level students may repeat the HIST reading and research seminars as many times as desired as long as they are taken under a different topic each time. The repeatability is being changed on all of the reading and research seminars to reflect the absolute maximum number of repetitions that it would be possible for a grad student to complete (30 hours would be conceivable for a student who entered the program as a master's level student and then pursued a Ph.D. afterwards.)
	Reviewer Comments		ddraper Wed, 03 Feb 2016 19:05:48 GMT Modified repeatability and restored "multiple enrollment in term allowed" per request of the HIST department to make all graduate-level research and reading seminars alike in terms of repeatability. agriffin Wed, 13 Apr 2016 18:41:32 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and the approval process.
HIST 548V			Added
HOSP 1301			Added
HOSP 2433			Added
JOUR 3273			Added
JOUR 5133			Added
LAWW 4182			Added
LAWW 5053			Added
LAWW 5293			Added
LAWW 5451			Added
LAWW 5692			Added
LAWW 6173			Added
LAWW 6553			Added
LAWW 676V			Added
LAWW 686V			Added
MATH 4423	Course Catalog Number	3423	4423
	Justification	Updating title	4000-level is required for continued enrollment of graduate students in Engineering.
	code	MATH 3423	MATH 4423

	Reviewer Comments		kulcza Mon, 21 Mar 2016 20:01:20 GMT Effective date will need to be fall 2017, based on timing of submission and approval process. agriffin Tue, 12 Apr 2016 19:28:57 GMT After discussion with Lisa on approval timeline, we both agreed this course could be approved effective for fall 2016.
MATH 5423		Added
MEST 3303		Added
MEST 340V		Added
MLIT 1003	Course Short Title	MUSIC LECTURE	EXPERIENCING MUSIC
	Course Long Title	Basic Course in the Arts: Music Lecture (ACTS Equivalency = MUSC 1003)	Experiencing Music (ACTS Equivalency = MUSC 1003)
	Course Catalog Description	Introduction to music. Lecture 3 hours per week providing experience in guided listening. Acquisition of vocabulary and certain fundamentals of music.	Examines how music reflects and impacts culture while familiarizing students with various musical styles, forms and ideas. Develops listening skills and introduces basic music vocabulary and fundamentals.
	Course Delivery Method	On campus	On campus
	Course Last Update Effective		Fall 2016
	Course Title/Description Change Type		Minor (stylistic/editorial) Change
	Justification		The proposed title and description more accurately reflects the content and aim of the course. The suggested changes also align the course more with the goals and objectives of fine arts and humanities core courses.
	Reviewer Comments		lindsayt Fri, 08 Apr 2016 19:43:13 GMT Rollback: This course is offered online. Please add the "online/web-based" delivery method in the Course Delivery Method section. kjvestal Mon, 11 Apr 2016 13:01:20 GMT I have added the ACTS Equivalency information that should be included with the title of the course.
MLIT 1003H	Course Last Update Effective	Fall 2015	Summer 2016
	Course Short Title	HONORS MUSIC LECTURE	Honors Experiencing Music
	Course Long Title	Honors Music Lecture	Honors Experiencing Music
	Course Catalog Description	Introduction to music. Lecture 3 hours per week providing experience in guided listening. Acquisition of vocabulary and certain fundamentals of music.	Examines how music reflects and impacts culture while familiarizing students with various musical styles, forms and ideas. Develops listening skills and introduces basic music vocabulary and fundamentals.
	Justification	Not offered in Summer.	The proposed title and description more accurately reflects the content and aim of the course. The suggested changes also align the course more with the goals and objectives of fine arts and humanities core courses.