On-line/Web-based Information <hr/> Reason for offering Web-based Program Program Justification – CRIM-BA online The proposal to offer an online CRIM-BA degree must be viewed in the broader context of the changes that have been taking place in the department and well as the University’s Eight Guiding Principles. In 2015, the Department developed and adopted a 2015-2019 Strategic Plan in support of our vision to become a regional leader in our areas of expertise. Our successful pursuit of this vision and our ability to make the most robust contributions to the Guiding Principles depend on a strategic integration of our teaching, research, and service, and their alignment with the needs of our students and the state. Accordingly, the faculty of the Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice are simultaneously submitting three interrelated proposal to <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) change the name of the department to the Department of Sociology and Criminology; 2) change the name of the major to Criminology-BA; and 3) offer the CRIM-BA major via online delivery If approved, these changes would more accurately describe what we do and offer to our students, and make high-quality education more accessible to Arkansans unable to pursue degrees on campus. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • In contrast to a typical CMJS-BA, our current CMJS-BA degree has always had a very strong CRIM and SOCI emphasis. Even a cursory review of our history, including our TT-faculty hiring patterns, makes it clear that we have predominantly hired sociologists and criminologists, always providing our CMJS students with a broader sociological and criminological theoretical and research orientation. • In 2015, the Department adopted a 2015-2019 Strategic Plan in support of our vision to become a regional leader in our areas of expertise by integrating the diverse strengths of the faculty in teaching, research, and service. We offer the MA in Sociology with concentrations in General Sociology and CRIM, preparing our students for doctoral studies in those two areas and/or professional careers emphasizing research and analysis. Given our strategic plan, which involves the creation of a Ph.D. in Sociology with an emphasis in CRIM, the proposed online delivery of CRIM-BA will provide resources to support the Ph.D. and create opportunities for our students to gain experience in online teaching. • Criminology is a growing sociology-based field devoted to the study of criminality and its relation to the justice system and justice policy. According to EDUVENTURE (2017), between Nov 2015 and Nov 2016, there were 37,473 total job postings for candidates with CRIM and CMJS skills, of which 10,504 were CRIM only. Although not many AR job postings make unique references to CRIM, this is not an indication of need/demand. In Arkansas, there is only one CRIM-BA at the Arkansas State University (ASU). In states with CRIM-BAs, e.g., CA & FL, the demand for employees with this degree is high. • The ASU is our only competitor in the state. Hence, we are faced with a unique opportunity to contribute to the educational and occupational transformation of the AR justice system. We will accomplish this by graduating students able to harness and combine their skills in scientific research, data literacy/analysis, and theory with the broader understating of criminality and justice systems. • It is incumbent upon the flagship campus in the UA System to offer an on-line CRIM-BA curriculum 	Terry Martin (tmartin): Approved for Provost Initial 6. 10/18/17 6:13 pm Alice Griffin (agriffin): Approved for Director of Program Assessment and Review 7. 10/20/17 3:38 pm Lisa Kulczak (lkulcza): Approved for Registrar Initial 8. 10/20/17 3:41 pm Gary Gunderman (ggunderm): Approved for Institutional Research 9. 10/20/17 5:17 pm Anna Zajicek-Wageman (azajicek): Approved for SOCI Chair 10. 10/24/17 3:31 pm Ryan Cochran (rcc003): Approved for ARSC Curriculum Committee 11. 11/01/17 9:59 am Jeannine Durdik (jdurdik): Approved for ARSC Dean 12. 11/01/17 4:42 pm Kiersten Bible (kbible): Approved for Global Campus 13. 11/01/17 4:56 pm Terry Martin (tmartin): Approved for Provost Review History 1. primarily taught by very research active T-TT and clinical criminology faculty who also teach the same nationally recognized curriculum on-campus and in both criminology and sociology.

• In comparison to the CMJS degree that is tailored to professionals directly managing the CJ system, a CRIM degree is more comprehensive, adding the skills that go beyond knowing criminal procedures or being familiar with the criminal evidence. Via online delivery we will make it possible for AR citizens as well residents of other states to access a high-quality ARKANSAS-based program that will expand their employment opportunities to include the jobs that harness the scientific research, theories, and data analytics concerning criminal behavior to understand it and develop and/or implement best practices in justice policies and crime prevention. Since we will continue to deliver our online CMJS minor, the proposed expansion of CRIM-BA degree to online delivery will enhance our students' educational options and post-graduation marketability.

Program Goals and Objectives

Program Goals and Objectives

The baccalaureate program in Criminology is designed to prepare individuals to understand and analyze the social causes, correlates, and implications of criminal behavior, the legal system, and the modes of social control. Hence, of particular importance to the criminology undergraduate program are the following general goals, which draw upon a strong base in the social sciences: NA

- 1. to provide intellectual and practical tools to examine and make sense of processes and issues relating to criminal behavior, the victims of crime, social control, and the needs of a broader society;
- 2. to provide habits of thought and investigation useful in later life;
- 3. to encourage exploration and development of ethical values; and
- 4. to provide the necessary foundation for professional competence or further training in professional or graduate schools.

Learning Outcomes

Learning Outcomes

By graduation, students with the B.A. Degree in Criminology should be able to: NA

- 1. effectively use critical thinking, to include the ability to analyze arguments, to understand theoretical and ideological assumptions that underlie different arguments; to create and defend a coherent argument;
- 2. effectively use communication skills in writing, to include the ability to clearly communicate both description and analysis; how to present original ideas and the work of others;
- 3. effectively use data as well as problem solving skills to conceptualize problems and to engage in effective reasoning and decision making;

In addition, students with the B.A. Degree in Criminology should have acquired the more specific set of skills:

- 1. an understanding of theories of crime, offender typologies, and victimology.
- 2. an understanding of the methodological foundations for conducting criminological research, to include the ability to understand and analyze qualitative and quantitative data;
- 3. knowledge of the various modes of social control, including the main forces of social control (e.g., criminal law, police, courts and corrections), and how the different modes of social control affect and are affected by the larger society;
- 4. knowledge necessary to become informed consumers of criminological research
- 5. an understanding diversity and inequality issues related to crime, victimization, incarceration, and the overall operation of the criminal justice system

Description and justification of the request

Description of specific change	Justification for this change
Changing degree name from CMJSBA to CRIMBA.	Accurately reflects the department's existing teaching/research/service focus and new proposed departmental name change to Department of Sociology and Criminology.
All current CMJS course codes are in the process of being changed to CRIM course codes. Catalog copy will be updated when changes are approved.	N/A

Description of specific change	Justification for this change
Added MATH 1313 as an option for MATH requirements.	The state of Arkansas is working on developing new pathways for students to get their mathematics training. There has been a recent push to diversify the pathways by which students can meet their basic degree requirements in Mathematics.
Adding online delivery for CRIMBA.	See above.
