All majors must complete the GSP or Grammar, Spelling and Punctuation requirement as a prerequisite or co-requisite to JOUR 1033 Media Writing by completing one of these two options: 1) Pass JOUR 1003 Journalistic Writing Skills with a grade of C or better; or 2) Pass the GSP test with a grade of 75% or better.

Once you officially declare a Journalism major or minor, you will obtain access to the GSP Blackboard course for option 2. Students who do not complete both the GSP requirement and JOUR 1033 with a C orbetter cannot enroll in any courses for which JOUR 1033 is a prerequisite. The GSP test is only administered a certain number of times each semester. Students must request a GSP test time a minimum of two weeks before they plan to take the test. There is no guarantee that GSP testing slots will be open when desired, so students must schedule well in advance.

A minimum grade of "C" is required in all journalism courses that serve as prerequisites for advanced journalism and advertising/public relations courses. In certain courses a minimum grade of "B" is required.

Description of specific change	Justification for this change
We are changing the hours completed requirement from 60 hours to 30 hours for JOUR 3723 Advertising Principles and JOUR 3743 Public Relations Principles. This change will allow students to take these courses in the sophomore or junior year (but the overall 2.5 GPA requirement and earning a B in JOUR 3723 and JOUR 3743 in order to qualify to enter the sequence and take the advanced Ad/PR courses will not change). This will add flexibility and options for students who are seeking to complete requirements in this high-demand major. We are changing the hours completed requirement from 90 hours to 60 hours to qualify to take the advanced required Ad/PR Sequence courses: JOUR 4143 Public Relations Writing, JOUR 4423 Creative Strategy and Execution, JOUR 4453 Media Planning & Strategy and JOUR 4473 Account Planning. This will allow students in the sequence to take these courses in the junior and senior year. (However, the overall 2.5 GPA requirement and earning a B in JOUR 3723 and JOUR 3743 in order to qualify to enter the sequence and take the advanced Ad/PR courses will not change). This also provides flexibility and options for students seeking to complete this high-demand major. We are adding the requirement for Ad/PR Sequence students to complete MKTG 3633 Marketing Research because research knowledge and skills are important to careers in the advertising and public relations field. The US Bureau of Labor Statistics predicts that market research analyst jobs will increase by 26% or much faster than average from 2016 to 2026. Developing knowledge and skills in market research is also central to earning promotions in the field. The Bureau also predicts that related occupations where market research is widely used such as advertising and promotions managers, public relations and fundraising managers, and database administrators are growing faster than average.	All changes are based on what we learned from assessment, accreditation, our discussions with professionals, and our survey of graduates. For example, the survey of graduates suggested students felt they needed more training in math and related concepts. Professionals are telling us that students need to be prepared to use data and analytics upon graduation. Requiring Marketing Research specifically addresses the math or numerical competency that our national accreditation organization and professionals in the field indicated requires additional training or improvement among our undergraduates in the Ad/PR Sequence of the Journalism major.

Description of specific change	Justification for this change
Reorganized the program requirements listing and the eight-semester degree plan.	Following the current template used for ARSC degrees.

Description of specific change	Justification for this change
Reconfiguring the JOURBA-ADPR concentration into a standalone major. The JOURBA-ADPR concentration can be removed.	The JOUR BA with Advertising/Public Relations (ADPR) Concentration should be reconfigured as an ADPR major to remain competitive with other ADPR programs in the region and meet national accreditation requirements. The ADPR concentration must become a stand-alone major so students can be required to take the courses needed to maintain national accreditation and be competitive with ADPR graduates from other programs in the region. Competing programs in the region (at Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and LSU) require at least one research course, which is why UA ADPR students are required to take MKTG 3633 Marketing Research. Also, students at ADPR regional programs are required to take 6 to 12 hours of marketing or business courses. In addition to the Marketing Research course, UA ADPR requires students to take Principles of Marketing and Consumer Behavior. Finally, regional ADPR programs require students to take the Campaigns course (typically as a capstone for assessment) as well as other ADPR specific courses. Reconfiguring the concentration to an ADPR major allows us to potentially introduce other courses competing programs already require, should resources become available in the future. ADPR students consistently represent more than half the majors in the School of Journalism and Strategic Media. The JOUR and ADPR majors will represent the two emphasis areas in the School: Journalism students in the Broadcast and News/Editorial Concentrations (or the Journalism part of the School's name), and ADPR (or the Strategic Media part of the School's name).
