Concentration to be offered online. We are also adding one required course to the concentration and changing the allocation of the 18 hours across the groups to accommodate the new course.   These changes are integral to the broader efforts of the AEAB Department to create an online pre-law concentration within the BS in Agricultural Business program. This not only enhances the academic offerings at the University of Arkansas but also prepares students to address the evolving legal challenges in agricultural business, ensuring that they are equipped to contribute meaningfully to the industry and their communities.
	Reason for offering Web-based Program		The AEAB Department is continuing its broader efforts to expand online offerings by creating an online pre-law concentration within the BS in Agricultural Business program. This not only enhances the academic offerings at the University of Arkansas but also prepares students to address the evolving legal challenges in agricultural business, ensuring that they are equipped to contribute meaningfully to the industry and their communities.
