Hello. Thank you for the courtesy of letting us know. While I understand why we ask for approval, I don't think it is my department's place to object in this case it should be the program's choice to eliminate a course requirement for their students. In examining your list of communication intensive credits and previously having met with your college's Curriculum Committee, their decision does not come as a great surprise.

We are certainly appreciate of having COMM 1313 as an elective for any AFLS student. Please feel free to let me know anytime you have questions about one of our courses.

Best wishes,

RB

Dr. Brady,

I am writing to let you know Bumpers College is submitting a program change form which in part changes the communication requirements for our Human Development Family Sciences BS (HDFSB) degree program. Currently the HDFSB degree requires students to complete the COMM 1313 course offered by your department. With the proposed program change, the students in the HDFSB programs have the option to select 3 hours of communication credits from a list of communication intensive courses approved by our college's curriculum committee. While COMM 1313 is on this list of approved communication intensive credits the students may select from, we can anticipate some of the students will opt to select one of the other options.

As part of the program change process, we are required to provide documentation that your department has been notified of the program change as it impacts your course. If you would please respond to this message and confirm your support of this program change, I will forward the information along with the request. If you have any questions or objections to this program change, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Thank you,

Jody Davis
