	Choose the learning outcome the course addresses:		Goal 3 – Learning Outcome 3.2 Goal 4 – Learning Outcome 4.1
	Do all instructors of this course agree to incorporate these learning indicators into their sections – and include related information on their syllabus?		Yes

Do all instructors of this course agree to develop, collect, and report (through Blackboard or other system as specified) direct evidence that students have met the learning outcomes?	Yes
To be certified as meeting this outcome, a course must incorporate at least three of five learning indicators. In an approved course, students will (please select indicators)	a. identify fundamental concepts, structures, themes, and principles of the discipline being introduced. c. produce a reasonable short essay about the material introduced in the course. d. interpret texts and other created artifacts within multiple historical, intellectual, and cultural contexts. e. draw connections among cultural achievements of various groups of people of different ethnicities, religious backgrounds, racial origins, and sexual identities.
How does the course meet three of five learning indicators? Please describe (in 400 words or less) how the course addresses 3 of 5 indicators.	a. Identify fundamental concepts, structures, themes, and principles of the discipline being introduced. In this course, students are required to be able to identify and use fundamental Arabic vocabulary and grammar structures, as well as cultural knowledge of the Arabic-speaking world.
	c. Produce a reasonable short essay about the material introduced in the course. • Students are required to write a composition in Arabic about cultural topics presented in readings and video clips throughout the course.
	d. Interpret texts and other created artifacts within multiple historical, intellectual, and cultural contexts • Students are required to read and discuss authentic texts and video clips describing the historical and cultural context of Arabic speaking peoples.
	e. Draw connections among cultural achievements of various groups of people of different ethnicities, religious backgrounds, racial origins, and sexual identities. • Students are required to learn about, discuss, and make connections between their own culture's cultural achievements and those of the people of the Arabic-speaking world.

How would the course instructor collect data to demonstrate student achievement of the Learning Outcome? (i.e. test questions; essays; homework assignments; presentations; etc.)

To be certified as meeting this outcome, a course or approved sequence of courses must incorporate at least three of the five learning indicators. In an approved course or approved sequence of courses, students will (please select indicators)

In order to determine that these designated learning outcomes are accomplished, student work in the course will be assessed via the following instruments:

-Quizzes Homework Assignments based on vocabulary, cultural topics, and grammar structures to measure students' abilities in listening, speaking, reading, writing, and cultural awareness/knowledge (indicators a, d, e)

-Written Exams based on vocabulary, grammar structures, and authentic short articles and audio to measure students' abilities in reading, writing, listening, vocabulary, and grammar knowledge. (Indicators a, d)

-Reading Exam consisting of a short paragraph and list of specific words to evaluate the student's pronunciation, fluency, intonation and stress. (Indicator a)

-Composition Exam based on vocabulary, cultural topics, and grammar structures to measure students' abilities in writing and cultural awareness/knowledge. (Indicators a, c, e)

-Oral Presentation in the form of a live or recorded presentation on a topic relating course content to students' personal experiences or outside interests. Presentations allow instructor to measure the student's pronunciation, fluency, grammatical accuracy, vocabulary, and allow students to apply language and culture learning to areas of interest outside the scope of the course content. Question Answer segments following the presentation also allow instructors ability to assess the student's ability to understand and also to be understood. (Indicators a, d)

 a. examine and interpret an intercultural experience from both one's own and another's worldview.

b. articulate the essential tenets of a cultural worldview other than one's own through an analysis of its components, including but not limited to history, values, communication styles, politics, economy, and beliefs and practices

c. identify and participate in cultural differences in verbal and nonverbal communication.

How does the course meet three of the five learning indicators? Please describe (in 400 words or less) how the course addresses 3 of the 5 indicators.

- a. Examine and interpret an intercultural experience from both one's own and another's worldview.
- Students are required to examine a number of intercultural experiences from their own worldview and compare the worldview of peoples of the Arabic-speaking world. A couple of examples include looking at hobbies and pastimes, differences in educational systems and social practices such as dating.
- b. Articulate the essential tenets of a cultural worldview other than one's own through an analysis of its components, including but not limited to history, values, communication styles, politics, economy, and beliefs and practices
- In this course, students are required to articulate some of the essential tenets of the worldview of Arabic-speaking peoples as they examine its history, values, and other aspects through readings and film.
- c. Identify and participate in cultural differences in verbal and nonverbal communication
- Students must learn how to communicate both verbally and nonverbally (through expression, actions, etc.) with peoples of the Arabic-speaking world. Their attention is drawn to differences between these aspects of communication in their own culture and the cultures of Arabic speakers.

To be certified as meeting this outcome, a course or approved sequence of courses must accomplish all five of the following learning indicators. In an approved course or approved sequence of courses, students will (please select indicators)	a. engage primarily in learning how to generate written, spoken, or multi-media presentations, receiving explicit instruction in how to analyze audiences and rhetorical situations, how to follow the example of model presentations, and how to revise. b. complete at least 12 pages of prose collected in at least three assignments or at least three oral or multi-media presentations that last a total of at least 20 minutes or some combination of written, oral, or multi-media presentations that constitute a commensurate amount of student work. c. integrate effective content to be presented in a written, oral, or multi-media presentation that is appropriate to a specific context, audience, and purpose. d. incorporate specific feedback into written, oral, or multi-media presentations, revising and editing them for clarity, force, and correctness. e. incorporate and cite sources gathered from primary (observational) or secondary (bibliographic) research in written, oral, or multi-media presentations.
How does the course meet all five learning indicators? Please describe (in 400 words or less) how the course addresses all 5 indicators.	In this course, students not only learn about Dante's opus, particularly the Divine Comedy, but they also learn about the rich history of its reception from early manuscript study to gaming and memes. Thus, students learn how to analyze diverse mediums (textual, filmic, visual cultures, gaming) and how to present on them using various multi-media in both written and oral communication. Students are asked to write two papers. The first paper is a five-page contribution along with a presentation. The final paper is at least 10 pages along with a presentation. Students unanimously evaluate each other's presentation and receive their peers' feedback along with instructor feedback prior to handing in the final draft of the final paper. Feedback from the instructor includes both content and organization as well as grammar and structure. Students must gather research from numerous sources and our encouraged to utilize not only the library at large but also Special Collections as they spend at least two class periods with our Dante collection.
How would the course instructor collect data to demonstrate student achievement of the Learning Outcome? (i.e. test questions; essays; homework assignments; presentations; etc.)	Learning outcomes are accessed through quizzes, presentations, written assignments, participation, blog posts, and ePortfolios. Rubrics are used by the instructor in assessing all above mentioned items.

	To be certified as meeting this outcome, an assignment must require the student, as part of a credit-bearing course, (a) to produce a significant written paper, as defined by his or her major, or an equivalent project incorporating performance and/or multimodal text and/or images; and (b) to explain in an additional document of at least 1250 words the degree to which the completed assignment involves at least three of the following sets of skills and abilities		a. Written, oral, and/or multimodal communication abilities. b. Quantitative literacy. c. Characteristics of inquiry and action in the major and in one of the Learning Outcomes under Goal 3 besides the disciplinary area of the major. d. Diversity awareness and/or intercultural competency. e. Critical thinking and/or ethical reasoning.
	How does the course or sequence of courses meet three of the five sets of skills and abilities? Please describe (in 400 words or less) how the course addresses 3 of the 5 indicators.		Through a variety of texts and mediums, students discuss and acquire extensive knowledge of Italian literature as well as the emphasis and lasting influence these texts have on Italian culture. This course forces students synthesize and integrate information and critical thinking skills from readings, lectures, and listening exercises; and to apply knowledge of the Italian language and culture to expressing their analysis. Topics incorporate diversity awareness and intercultural competency, as topics address Italian and Anglophile receptions of Dante and his opus. Subthemes discussed in this course address migration, class, religion and philosophy, race, gender, sexuality, and concepts of nationalism.
	How would the course instructor collect data to demonstrate student achievement of the Learning Outcome? (i.e. test questions; essays; homework assignments; presentations; etc.)		Data are collected in the form of the assignments themselves as well as student feedback to most of the assignments. The ePortfolio allows students, peers, and faculty to share feedback and reflections and grow intellectually. The instructor assesses evidence of communication ability; inquiry related to various areas of study combined with an Italian context; engagement with issues of diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging; and critical thinking. The DEIB aspect is built into the available topic areas; evidence of critical thinking and ethical reasoning includes: posing questions about long-held assumptions or the manner in which a topic is frequently contextualized, analysis that elicits questions on the same or similar, or making connections between topic areas that illuminate potential such questions.

	Prerequisite(s)	For pre-nursing and nursing majors only. Must have sophomore standing or above and a GPA of 3.0 and above.	Admission to the NURS-PLRN major.

	Justification	Adding the meeting of Gen Ed Outcome 4.1 to this course	There is consistent issues with enrollment in this course as students who are not yet admitted to the program self-enroll which causes students who have been admitted to the program to be unable to enroll. The change in language of the pre-req should eliminate these issues. This course is intended to be taken once admitted to the program.
