	Course Number	32002	32003
	Credit Hours	2	3
	Pre- or Corequisite(s)	PBHL 11003 and PBHL 34403.
	Justification		The scope of material covered and the volume of required assignments align with the expectations and academic rigor of a standard three#credit#hour course.
	Course Code	PBHL 32002	PBHL 32003
	Syllabus		PBHL32003_Syllabus_HealthCareHealthPolicy_Spring20

	Additional Notes		The department has confirmed that most students who will need this as a 2-credit-hour class have already taken it. In the off chance students need to take this as a 2 hr course after it changes to a 3 cr hr class, the dept will offer an independent study class to accomodate.
PHIL 30003	allcodes	PHIL 40003	PHIL 30003
	Proposed Effective Date	Spring 2025	Fall 2026
	Course Number	40003	30003
	Justification	Not an actual change. Submitting syllabus to demonstrate separate learning outcomes for grad and undergrad students.	We would like to change the course numbering for PHIL 40003 (Ancient Greek Philosophy) and 40303 (Modern Philosophy – 17th and 18th Centuries) to the 30000 level. That is, we would like them to be renumbered to PHIL 30003 and 30303, if possible. We know that this means that we will be eliminating the 50000 versions of these courses (50003) and (50303). The rationale for this change is that these history courses are required for majors and minors (one of those two for minors). These courses are in high demand, and we would like the curriculum to be tailored to undergraduate populations. Further, we would ideally like these classes to be taken, as a general rule, before other 40000 level courses (though we are not insisting on that). Only undergraduate learning outcomes will be retained, of course. As a consequence, we will be changing our MA requirements, as graduate students previously had to take the 50000 versions of these courses. The departmental faculty have voted on and approved this change.

Syllabus only changes qualify for administrative saves.	nrgreen - Wed, 15 Oct 2025 14:51:35 GMT - Rollback: The syllabus will not open. Can you reattached and resubmit? nrgreen - Fri, 23 Jan 2026 17:15:35 GMT - Department has clarified that grad level courses will still exist but will no longer be taught combined/overlapped with undergraduate level classes. Updated syllabus to reflect this.
	Additional Notes		We are ok with numbering being anything as long as it is 30000 level. We would like to retain the 50000 level course for later use for graduate students in possible.
